THE GREAT LIGHT

A Sacred Concert Heard By a Large Audience.

"The Great Light," the Cantata given at Wright's Grand Opera House under the baton of Mr. B. M. Sims, Director of Music at Lexington College, was heard and enjoyed Friday night by a large audience.

This Cantata is a musical composition, and was sung by a chorus of a hundred voices. The college chorus was assisted by a number of town friends. All solos were given by home talent: Miss Mildred Sydnor, soprano; Miss Elizabeth Edwards, contralto; Mr. William Aull, Jr., tenor; Mr. Tim Howard, tenor; Mr. John Price, bass; Mr. William Smock, baritone, and Mr. Bradley M. Sims, baritone.

The solo work was creditably done; they were however, handicapped by inadequate support from the piano, which gave a hint of inaccuracy. Miss Edwards' voice was heard for the first time by many of the audience and was thoroughly appreciated by all. Her tones were very clear and sweet, and her enunciation good.

Mr. Sims is to be congratulated on the ability displayed in training so large a chorus.

The music, under the direction of Mr. D. E. Conrad, was in accordance with the Templar's ritual and was well given.

Dr. Z. M. Williams, who delivered the address, presented the old subject of death and the resurrection, in an unique and impressive manner. Few speakers have ever been heard in Lexington, whose language was more chaste or polished, or whose delivery more impressive than that of Dr. Williams on this occasion.
